Numbers are a little off from what I heard from investors and founder but this is the company I was talking about for CRO role

And if you guys need to use a shower or bath or whatever with the water being shut down today let me know. You're welcome here for anything

Thank you so much! Let me send to my friend

My buddy said this:

Route and extend have tried to lock up the big distribution partners. I'm not sure any of these guys are doing anything that different other than just putting warranty at the POS. Low barrier to entry if you're just a broker to a carrier warranty policy too

Right. Makes sense. I just signed my NDA ahead of the offer letter so soon I'll be able to review the things SureBright wouldn't share upfront. They've talked a bit about becoming a Managing General Agent to be granted underwriting power to have higher commissions and cheaper policies.

Im assuming your buddy is referring to the "big distribution partners" being the larger e-commerce/merchant aggregators?

<https://sellerrocket.io/ecommerce-aggregators/>

But not Amazon resellers per say

I think on distro he probably means the big carriers

But maybe I'm wrong

Hey bud, I've been on the board for a pretty cool startup for about a year. They are an AI productivity layer between published scientific research data and institutional enterprise users.

They are in a closed beta, but are now post revenue with traction and proof of concept. The next product iteration add a ChatGPT interface.

I think the time is now to pursue VC capital and was wondering if I could run them by you for feedback and possible introductions should you see what I see

For sure!

Awesome. How do you prefer to proceed?

You can send deck or we can zoom whatever easiest

I recommended some revisions to the deck and am jumping in to help expedite. Should have an email out to you soon. Thank you again.
