Hi Steve, it's Meredith. I just sent you an email from a new email address. I hope you are having a happy holidays!

Hi Meredith, I resigned from my position right before the holidays. It wasn't pretty behind the scenes for me and I got out before it got ugly. Good company just not for me. Sadly, they aren't going to be a good lead for you without me there. They wanted to do everything in house but struggle to justify spend. I wanted to go fast. They want very careful planning and expectation forecasting

Ah! Gotcha. No worries. I sort of did same thing lol. I went back to my old agency because the one I was with ruined campaigns for clients that were running perfectly before I moved them over. I had to get out quickly as well. What are you up to now?

I haven't completely decided what is next. Taking some time in to January, maybe February to determine what's next. I am battling non compete language so I may have to shift from the industry depending on outcomes

But I'm open

Delivered

Ouch! I'm so sorry
