Hey Steve. Great chatting today. Just want to send a note please don't tell David (both Gritz and Wieland) that we are talking. I will do the same

Agreed

100 percent.

Hey Steve. Make sure you talk to Wieland this week. He organized a Chicago founders meet next week and may be able to keep you in mind when talking to others.

Hey Steve. Have you got a chance to speak to David? How did it go?

I'm not gonna reach out to him until I get my final paycheck

Ok. It may actually be easier to let him know and remind him of your pay check

He actually has access to our corporate banking account

Meanwhile I am sure Manish will try to delay it

If it gets to be the end of the week, and I haven't been notified about the wire transfer than I will reach out to him

You can trust David on being prompt to pay you

Ok

Let me know how it goes. Feel free to call me after your chat with David

Yes, I will keep in touch with you if anything happens

Thanks for the support

Still no final paycheck and no word from Manish . I just emailed David W and offered my perspective over a call next week

Ok. Remind David of pay cheque. He is an admin to our corporate account and he can issue the payment.

Yes I will bring that up over the call. Good tip thank you

I just can't believe Manish. This is a power move to have something I want and decide not to even respond and to mess with my livelihood because he's sour

This is not by accident

Yes. He is wicked

You can send a follow up email to David and just tell him about the payment

He can do it just by logging in

Ok I will do that now

Luckily wage wise you can go after the company directors (like Manish and David) even if the company goes under.

After your call with David, you can send a quick email to Tim Griffin and ask him for some advice on positions

He really liked you after the interview and said he had a position for you (not sure if he still does) if we don't recruit you

And he knows everything about the conflict with Manish and his character. He helped me when fighting against Manish

Ok I just emailed Tim as well

Not paying someone really makes me angry so I was going to play nice and step away without conflict but now I'm rolling up my sleeves

Yeah. Unfortunately playing nice with Manish will never work. I learned it the hard way lol

Hey Steve. Have you talked to David and got your paycheck?

I got paid last week and I have a call scheduled with David for Monday

I spoke with Tim your first investor as he and I always got along really well and told him everything for the most part, but he said he hasn't heard from Manish in about 4 to 6 months

Let me know if you are interested in this role and I will intro you

Yeah Tim doesn't stand with Manish well too

I appreciate you forwarding that and I'm open to opportunities but I don't think that role fits me. I'm also based in Philadelphia so that might be against what they're looking for but either way I would pass but thank you again I appreciate it.

Ok

I think it fits your background very well since Nium is a payment FinTech too

It would be great to just chat. Let me know

OK I will remain open. I'm traveling right now and I will look into the company when I get home this weekend.

Ok

Have you found your next step?

Yeah working on something but need to get the legal stuff out of the way

Keep me posted on the chat with David. Specifically I am curious what his plan is for SB and if they have another funding

Liked "Keep me posted on the chat with David. Specificall..."

Btw did SB send you any release documents to sign?

Just get a lawyers advice before you sign anything. I don't think you need to sign anything to your best advantage

I was not saying anything and have not signed anything

I was not sent anything*

Typo

Hey Steve. How was the call with David?

Pretty uneventful. He didn't see a whole of value in connecting and just asked my opinion about how to reach more customers. He didn't want to talk about Manish good or bad and said it's his company to run and he stays out of the way. He also sounded like he was tainted by Manish's opinion of me and questioned why I couldn't contract any BNPL partners in the 90 days I was there

Ahh I am sorry to hear that. It seems Manish got to him first.

The fact he doesn't want to talk about it seems he knows and is done with it

Don't take it personally

Maybe he is just as frustrated. Manish does have the majority decisioning power now and David can't do much about it.

Did he mention whether they raised any more money?

No and it wasn't my place to ask

Ok

How is your search going? Let me know if you want to connect with Amol.

I will pass after looking into it but thanks again

Ok

Do you have any plans next?

I'm in talks with a company I'm an advisor for to come on full time

Nice. Which one. Let me know if you want to just chat sometime.

And how I can help

Hey Steve. Quick update. My lawyer Lluc may give you a quick call later today to quickly run some questions with you. Again just questions on facts. Feel free to let him know whatever questions you don't want to be asked on. Lluc will send you the zoom invite afterwards if needed.

Thanks again. It means a lot
