I have to bring my dog up to Bethlehem. Having trouble finding a walker. I was going to leave her at my parents who are away this weekend and can't find someone to let her out. She's great with kids and other dogs!

I know it's a long shot but what are the odds Lucy our black lab could stay at your place while we golf? I'd come to your crib to car pool in the am then ride back with you to get her afterwards

I'd tuck $50 cash in your wife's purse of course

I'll see what the wifey is up to on Friday. If anything she should be able to stop by your parents and let her out if it doesn't work out with bringing her to our house

For some reason I think I remember seeing that she had a few yoga sessions Friday

A yogie for a wife? Brother you have it made!

She's an instructor now...nice tight body

To go along with my 6 pack

If she's around though I'll ask her about bringing to dog over to our spot, I'll let you know tonight

Awesome I have other feelers out there so should be good. Otherwise I let her shit all day in my parents house and clean it up before they get home. Thanks my ultimate backup Non preferred option

That's *

Thanks again!

Hahaha yeah I'll let you know

10/5/22, 8:53 PM

Yo sorry man but Andrea isn't going to be at home Friday, but she might be able to pop over there and let the dog out in the late AM

Ok good to know and thanks for NOTHIN

jk

Sounds good. Ask her to send me yogi pose recommendations

In picture form

Hahaha

Nice try

What did you mean by offset?

My point was that your clubs appear to have little offset which is the preferred path of a low handicap ball striker. Someone who shoots what you shoot would more often times choose more forgiveness in a higher offset iron. More offset is easier to hit vs less offset which are designed for higher handicaps as more offset helps shitty golfers achieve a higher trajectory.

It was my always intelligent, though subtly humorous way of saying you're not a low handicap and maybe a bunch of YouTube swing tips would improve your swing to the point of being capable of hitting a low-handicap iron like the ones in the picture that appear to have little offset but there was irony in there as well in the sense that YouTube swing tips are more likely to hurt your game than help, ...and then there was even another layer of irony in there too bc I implied you were dumb enough to turn to YouTube for swing tips. That's what I meant by my offset joke. And If you don't know what offset is go read a golf book

I hit these at galaxy...I have too much launch with my current irons, and I feel like I lose accuracy (and no it's not me) 😂

Who would you want for saquon?

Barb

Well played...done

Make an offer

Stevenson and flowers

Who?

11/13/23, 9:53 PM

Would you be willing to trade cooper?

11/13/23, 11:52 PM

Id be willing to do a lot of things

But I never know how willing

Until I'm met with something worthy of being willed

Edited

And in that moment, without hesitation, I become the wanting willer

11/14/23, 12:01 AM

But in THIS moment, few things I seek need a willing. Especially when the willing (to do most anything)...goes by "Barb"

11/14/23, 7:26 AM

Hahahaha that was good, I'll give you that one

Especially waking up to it
